Energy prices from October, and what they mean for you

Dear Mark,

The Government has announced a 2 year Energy Price Guarantee that caps variable energy prices at £2,500 for a typical home.

This represents a discount of around £1,000 for a typical home compared to the Ofgem price cap for October to December, and is in addition to the £400 Energy Bill Support Scheme that will reduce all monthly payments between October and March, and the further support already announced for low income or vulnerable households.

On top of this support, we're reducing standing charges from the Energy Price Guarantee level by 4%.

This means from October 1, your prices will be slightly cheaper than the Energy Price Guarantee rates. You don't need to do anything – this will be handled automatically.

You'll find a personalised breakdown in this document of how this increase affects your rates, including an outline of what prices would be without the guarantee.

If you're struggling with energy bills, please let us know via the contact details on this document. We'll review your situation and help you find financial support you're entitled to.

We'll automatically reduce your October payment by £67 as part of the Energy Bill Support Scheme.

We constantly review your payments are set to a sensible level – we'll send you a recommendation over the coming weeks should they need adjustment due to the new prices. Of course, you're always in control, and can change your payments at any time in your online account.

The Government's Energy Price Guarantee is helping lower unit rates, but standing charges are still astronomical. 6 months ago, we introduced Loyal Octopus support to help address this, but today Loyal Octopus support is changing to direct support where it's needed most.

We're reducing our standing charges a further 4% from the Government discounted level – I wish it could be more, but in times like these it's only right to direct as much help as possible to those less fortunate. We've also stopped advertising on TV, bus stops, train stations, sports arenas and online, and are redirecting all these funds to help customers who are struggling.

For 100,000 customers, these funds will provide a standing charge holiday for up to 6 months, depending on need. We'll share more about this new program soon.

This ensures if you need support, you will get more of it.

We'll always offer the best fixed prices we can to our existing customers, but in the current market, those prices are well above the new capped price. With this in mind, we're not currently offering standard fixed term tariffs – they simply don't make much sense right now.

Yours sincerely,

Greg Jackson
