Hello Mark,

Thank you for sending over the photo of your gas meter reading. I appreciate your diligence in providing this information!

I understand your concerns regarding the estimated bill and the potential discrepancies it may have caused. We will review your meter reading and compare it with our estimates to ensure that any necessary adjustments are made to your account.

As for the calculation of deductions, we typically take the actual reading into account and adjust your bill accordingly. If your actual usage is lower than what was estimated, we will ensure that you are charged based on your actual consumption, which may involve using the maximum rate charged during your time with us if that is applicable.

Rest assured, we aim to resolve this matter fairly and promptly.

If you need any further help or need to clear any doubts, I will be here to support you! 😊

Sincerely, Cheila 🐙

Dear Octopus Energy

Please find enclosed a photo of my gas meter reading.

This seems to be substantially lower than your estimate.

Please advise me what you intend to do about this, and in particular how you calculate any deduction from your estimated bill

Obviously you will have charged different rates across the duration of this overestimate

I would suggest you should use the max amount you have charged me since I first became an Octopus customer, to avoid unreasonable charges being made due to your estimating errors.

Hope you are all well there at Octopus. Keep up the generally good work.

Kind regards,

M. C. Cope.
