Good news: Energy bills are coming down from April 1

Dear Mark,

From April 1, energy bills are falling. This is largely thanks to the Government's decision to remove some levies and obligations from energy bills — a move Octopus has championed for years. Moving these costs off your bills is finally making a difference to your monthly costs.

While the April price cap increases standing charges for electricity in most areas to cover grid upgrades, Octopus is not passing these rises on. We are holding or reducing electricity standing charges in every single region. We remain the only large supplier to have never charged the full Ofgem price cap.

You'll find a personalised breakdown for you in this document. You don't currently have a Direct Debit set up, which adds to the admin and costs of supplying energy to you. You could typically save an extra £90 a year simply by paying with Direct Debit (you'll find the rates in this document) – just set one up in your online account, or give us a call.

If you are struggling with your bills, please let us know – find out more about our support fund, standing charge help, or our electric blanket scheme at <https://octo.ps/crisis-support>.

While the Ofgem Price Cap protects your rates until at least July, global volatility means wholesale costs are unpredictable. We are still offering fixed tariffs if you want certainty for the next year. They are more expensive than they were recently, but they protect you from potential rises in July or over winter. Fix online or contact us via the details on this document.

Yours sincerely,

The Octopus Energy team
