Hello Mark,

Thank you for getting in touch. I hope this email finds you well. 🐙

I would also like to thank you for a detailed email. It's very much appreciated.

Kindly note that I have passed your feedback to our relevant department and they'll look into it accordingly.

I would kindly advise you to visit our website here and set up your direct debit details so we can work a payment plan for the outstanding balance as soon as possible.

If you would rather have a chat with one of our advisers to discuss this, you can always call our freephone number 0808 164 1088.

You won't have to wait long, and you'll be put through to one of our friendly team who will be able to help. This way, you can call us at a time that's convenient for you.

If there is anything else we can help you with, feel free to contact us.

Kind regards,

Mirza

Hello,

That's probably because, as I have told you before, I had no idea you were attempting to access my account - and I have never authorised any bank to allow you to take any money from any account. I'd be seriously upset if my bank let a company I have not given explicit permission to to take money from my account.

In any case I have changed bank in the last year.

You should NOT assume that email is a reliable means of communication. It is not. Messages get intercepted and put into spam boxes (especially those from companies). Email is in any case not 100% reliable (I have received emails ten years later, for example), and finally I get so much shit in my inbox (from endless companies telling me about their great products I am not interesting in) spamming me. It is very easy to miss something important at the best of times.

Please communicate via letter (as well as email - no problem if you're trying...). You're really out of order to expect email to work alone - might save you money, but as per the above - doesn't work for customer - so don't be surprised when it causes issues.

Best regards,

Mark.

Good morning Mark,

Thank you for getting back to me.

I would like to confirm that I have sent your reset password details in a separate email (to this email address markcollinscope@gmail.com) so you can access your account accordingly.

If there is anything else I can help you with, please do not hesitate to reach out.

Have a lovely rest of the day,

Kindest regards,

Mirza
